

THE IKS VALUES

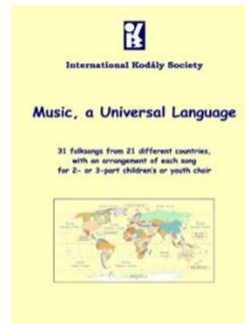

The IKS strives to nurture the Kodály philosophy around the world. Embedded values of accessibility, equity, diversity and inclusivity, academic rigour, musical excellence and personal and cultural identity are key characteristics of Kodály practice worldwide.

- Individuals should be afforded the right and opportunity to develop their musical gifts.
- Music education is an integral part of a school curriculum.
- The need for musical expression, inherent in every human being, should be satisfied.
- The use of authentic material that has educational value is the basis for all teaching.
- Indigenous musical heritage and music from all over the world is promoted to develop an understanding between people.

"Music is for everyone"
Zoltán Kodály

The International Kodály Society was founded in 1975 to support amateur and professional teaching and performing musicians, composers and conductors, patrons of the arts, and institutions who are interested in, practitioners of, or founded on the philosophy and practices of Zoltán Kodály (1882–1967). In 2016, UNESCO honored the Kodály Concept as one of those "models of teaching worthy of use on an international scale" and among the "best practices for the preservation of culture."
